

Health and Safety Professional Georg Blecke

With his thirty years of practical experience at RWE, Georg Blecke is a valuable expert in the field of work health & safety for various construction sites and operational power stations. From 1991 to 2005, he initially worked as an electrical engineer at multiple RWE locations. Consequently, he got involved and played an active role in various projects regarding the scope of Health and Safety (H&S). Georg was then appointed as senior safety engineer of the hard coal, gas and biomass divisions for the Power Plants Germany from 2015 – 2016.

According to the Occupational Safety Act (ASIG), he is a certified occupational safety engineer and his key responsibilities include the Health and Safety support to international consulting activities, projects and constructions sites in development and execution phases (i.e. New Build and Demolition).

Within his scope, Georg is also responsible for the pre-qualification of sub-contractors, the support of the project team along with the assistance of audits both nationally and internationally.

He is not only a Root Cause Analysis (RCA) expert, but also contributes in-depth knowledge regarding Risk Assessments and Method Statements.

With his experienced H&S communication and training, Georg supports H&S elements of the integrated management system.

1 What gives you most satisfaction in your work?

Personally, I am the most satisfied when I am able to support the colleagues proactively on the topics of health and safety at work and thus promote the team attitude.

2 Why did you choose RWE TI?

I have chosen RWE TI since we take over a responsible role enabling organizations worldwide to advance the safety and sustainability of their energy business. It is extremely important to promote the practical handling and recognition of existing risks in order to achieve a common understanding of occupational safety and health.

3 “Your challenge is our passion!” – What it means to me:

It is my personal concern to ensure that work is only done in a safe environment. With the new Mission Zero program of RWE, I am proud to be part in a safety initiative maintaining a firm belief that, regardless of location, every incident, whether large or small, can and must be prevented. I am passionate to meet that challenge since the safety of our colleagues and clients must be our top priority.
