Project description

As part of its diversification strategy, the newly formed renewable group, innogy SE, was interested in rebalancing its service offering in favour of solar energy, the fastest growing renewable energy sector.

We performed a technical due diligence of “Belectric”, a major solar company, at corporate and project levels to provide the basis for structuring innogy’s formal acquisition offer. We worked closely with innogy to define a robust evaluation methodology for the technical, economic and overall performance of Belectric’s solar and project portfolio.

Our team of due diligence and electrical specialists successfully supported the transaction, allowing our client to meet the challenging schedule of the acquisition timeline.
